

I've lived in Edenderry for the past 14 years and have seen no investment or interest in the local councillors promoting Edenderry. The new road leading from the roundabout for derrinturn/ the N4 should be used by local government to attract investment from the IDA. There is plenty of vacant property and land within the Edenderry area that could attract the likes of IKEA or amazon data centres and would give a welcome boost to not only Edenderry but the wider Offaly area. I believe this is a missed opportunity considering the high unemployment rate in the Midlands in general.
